GENOCIDE, POLITICAL VIOLENCE, HUMAN RIGHTS

THE REAPPEARED Argentine Former Political Prisoners Rebekah Park
“This is a pioneering study about former political prisoners in post-dictatorship Argentina. Park sheds light on enduring struggles and human rights processes embodied in a remarkable group of activists fiercely committed to political change and accountability.”
—Susan Slyomovics, author of How To Accept German Reparations
192 pp • 978-0-8135-6854-6 • Paper • $29.95

THREE CENTURIES OF CONFLICT IN EAST TIMOR Douglas Kammen
“Far too late, the savagery of the Indonesian invasion of East Timor finally reached public awareness. But by now has been serious scholarly study of this terrible period. Douglas Kammen reveals intriguing layers of complex both of the actual historical events and of the ways they are refracted within cultural memory and interpretation, shaping actions and their motives in intricate ways.”
—Noam Chomsky

DEMANDING JUSTICE AND SECURITY
Indigenous Women and Legal Pluralities in Latin America
Rachel Sieder
“Demanding Justice and Security constitutes a milestone in the study of indigenous women’s organizing, understanding and engaging legal pluralities in Latin America. Drawing on rich fieldwork from Bolivia, Mexico, Colombia, Ecuador and Guatemala, the authors of this collaborative research-action experience have crafted an outstanding multi-sited ethnography of gender, violence, injustice and insecurity in these countries. This remarkable volume allows for a unique opportunity to consider structural violence and its comparative effects on the gendered body politic.”
—Pamela Calla, Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies, New York University

NEW DIRECTIONS IN INTERNATIONAL STUDIES
NOT QUITE A CANCER VACCINE
Selling HPV and Cervical Cancer
Samantha D. Gottlieb
“Not Quite a Cancer Vaccine offers an intimate examination of HPV vaccine narratives, traced through public media, clinics, conferences, and public policy debates. In an era of commodified health care, such explorations are necessary to lay threadbare the motivations of health interventions as a public good only after corporate interests are served. Despite their potential good, inappropriate promotions of new technologies may minimize or even ignore the health inequities they aim to address.”
—Nicola L. Bulled, editor of Thinking Through Resistance

Demanding Justice and Security: Indigenous Women and Legal Pluralities in Latin America
Edited by Rachel Sieder
Important achievement." It marks an intersection between the forces we categorize as 'global' with the particulars of everyday life, connecting the capitalist economy with the ground daily experience. This analysis builds on captivating stories from children I have met in Santo Domingo, the Dominican Republic, and the non-governmental organizations that provide social services for them. Jon M. Wolseth, Children and Youth on the Streets: Life on the Malecón Jon M. Wolseth Children and Youth on the Streets: Life on the Malecón "I highly recommend this unique interdisciplinary work, which contributes to childhood studies and race studies with vivid ethnography." — Laurent Silver, Rutgers University, Camden 208 pp • 1 figure, 2 tables 978-0-8135-8478-2 • Paper • $27.95S CITY KIDS Transforming Racial Baggage Maria Kromidas "I highly recommend this unique interdisciplinary work, which contributes to childhood studies and race studies with vivid ethnography." — Laurent Silver, Rutgers University, Camden 208 pp • 1 figure, 2 tables 978-0-8135-8478-2 • Paper • $27.95S LIFE ON THE MALECÓN Children and Youth on the Streets of Santo Domingo Jon M. Wolseth Life on the Malecón is a narrative ethnography of the lives of street children and youth living in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, and the non-governmental organizations that provide social services for them. Jon M. Wolseth follows the intersecting lives of children, the institutions they come into contact with, and the relationships they have with each other, their families, and organization workers. 240 pp • 978-0-8135-6287-2 • Paper • $30.95S CHILDHOOD IN A SRI LANKAN VILLAGE Shaping Hierarchy and Desire Bambi L. Chapin "What makes this book so special is that it does not stop at description, as do most ethnographies. It goes on to explain Sinhalese childhood and child rearing, doing so within a well-considered, smartly-deployed psychoanalytic framework." — Naomi Quinn, Duke University 230 pp • 3 tables • 978-0-8135-6165-3 • Paper • $27.95S LIVING CLASS IN URBAN INDIA Sara Dickey “This analysis builds on captivating stories of everyday life, connecting the capitalist forces we categorize as ‘global’ with the spaces, practices, and organizations that ground daily experience. It marks an important achievement.” — Mary Hancock, University of California 288 pp • 8 photographs • 978-0-8135-8391-4 Paper • $29.95S CHILDREN AS CAREGIVERS The Global Fight against Tuberculosis and HIV in Zambia Jean Hunleth Medical anthropologist Jean Hunleth chronicles the experiences of children living with parents and guardians who are suffering from these infectious diseases and shows how their perspectives matter in the global debates about health care. Children as Caregivers examines how well intentioned practitioners fail to realize how children take on active caregiving roles when their guardians become seriously ill. 234 pp • 15 photographs and drawings • 978-0-8135-8803-2 Paper • $34.95S TRAFFICKED CHILDREN AND YOUTH IN THE UNITED STATES Reimagining Survivors Elzbieta Gozdziak “This is a thoughtful and important book about victims of child trafficking. Its strength lies in the juxtaposition of programmatic responses to trafficking with child survivors’ own perceptions of their experiences and needs.” — Alicia Peters, University of New England 194 pp • 3 tables • 978-0-8135-6969-7 • Paper • $27.95S AMBIVALENT ENCOUNTERS Childhood, Tourism, and Social Change in Banaras, India Jenny Huberman This ethnographic study brings together scholarship on the anthropology of childhood, tourism, consumption, and exchange to examine how and why children working as unlicensed peddlers and tourist guides along the waterfront of Banaras, India, a popular and iconic tourist destination, elicit such powerful reactions from western visitors and locals in their community and explores how the children themselves experience their work and their place in a tourist destination. 246 pp • 1 map • 978-0-8135-5406-8 • Paper • $31.95S YOUTH IN POSTWAR GUATEMALA Education and Civic Identity in Transition Michelle J. Bellino Through rich ethnographic accounts, Youth in Postwar Guatemala traces youth experiences in schools, homes, and communities, examining how knowledge and attitudes toward historical injustice develop through formal and informal educational interactions. Michelle J. Bellino shows how a new generation struggles to unlearn authoritarianism and develop new democratic civic identities. 270 pp • 1 table • 978-0-8135-8799-8 • Paper • $34.95S PLANNING FAMILIES IN NEPAL Global and Local Projects of Reproduction Jan Brunson “Jan Brunson skilfully weaves keen ethnographic observation with incisive social scientific analysis to provide a sensitive and nuanced account of gender and reproduction in an increasingly globalized Nepal.” — Geoff Chids, Washington University 168 pp • 11 figures, 1 table • 978-0-8135-7861-3 Paper • $26.95S RUTGERS SERIES IN CHILDHOOD STUDIES
EATING TO LEARN, LEARNING TO EAT
The Origins of School Lunch in the United States
Andrew R. Ruis
Historian A. R. Ruis explores the origins of American school meal initiatives to explain why it has been so difficult to establish meal programs that satisfy the often competing interests of children, parents, schools, health authorities, politicians, and the food industry.

STRUCTURAL INTIMACIES
Sexual Stories in the Black AIDS Epidemic
Sonja Mackenzie
Structural Intimacies brings together scholarship on the structural dimensions of the AIDS epidemic and the social construction of sexuality to address the continuing HIV epidemic in the Black population. It asserts that shifting forms of sexual stories, structural intimacies, are emerging and presents a compelling argument: in an era of deepening medicalization of HIV/AIDS, public health must move beyond individual-level interventions to community-level health equity frames and policy changes.

HUMANITARIAN AFTERSHOCKS IN HAITI
Mark Schuller
Schuller led an independent study of eight displaced-persons camps in Haiti, compiling more than 150 interviews ranging from Haitian front-line workers and camp directors to foreign humanitarians and many earthquake victims. The result is an insightful account of why the multi-billion-dollar aid response to the Haitian earthquake triggered a range of unintended consequences, rupturing social and cultural institutions and actually increasing violence, especially against women.
