CRITICAL ISSUES IN CRIME & SOCIETY

EVERYDAY DESISTANCE
The Transition to Adulthood Among Formerly Incarcerated Youth
Laura S. Abrams & Diane Terry
In Everyday Desistance, the authors examine the transition to adulthood among twenty-five formerly incarcerated young men and women in Los Angeles, California. They describe their day-to-day experiences, focusing on their attempts to surmount the challenges of adulthood, resist the temptations of criminal activity, and formulate their long-term goals for a secure adult future.

ADDICTED TO REHAB
Race, Gender, and Drugs in the Era of Mass Incarceration
Allison McKim
“While most people struggle to get out of rehab, Allison McKim fought her way in to study it—and came out with a brilliant, nuanced, fascinating, and original account of the different ways addiction is defined and addressed in the contemporary U.S. This is a critical contribution to our understandings of drugs, criminal justice, and the gender politics of mass incarceration.”
—Lyne Haney, New York University

POLICE, POWER, AND THE PRODUCTION OF RACIAL BOUNDARIES
Ana Munitz
Police, Power, and the Production of Racial Boundaries reveals how the LAPD, city prosecutors, and business owners struggled to control who should be considered “dangerous” and how they should be policed in Los Angeles.

PRISON AND SOCIAL DEATH
Joshua M. Price
“Prison and Social Death offers a look into the carceral state through a methodologically delicate participatory action research project. A significant text for students of prison studies, critical participatory methods and community based policy research.”
—Michelle Fine, Distinguished Professor of Critical Psychology, The Graduate Center, CUNY

MISCONCEPTION
Social Class and Infertility in America
Ann V. Bell
“Exceptionally well written and vigorously researched, Misconception challenges common understandings of infertility. Bell illustrates how stereotypes of who should be mothers affect women’s infertility understandings of infertility. Bell illustrates how stereotypes of who should be mothers affect women’s infertility experiences, focusing on their attempts to surmount the challenges of adulthood, resist the temptations of criminal activity, and formulate their long-term goals for a secure adult future.

WHEN RIOT COPS ARE NOT ENOUGH
The Policing and Reproduction of Occupy Oakland
Mike King
“Vital, important and compelling, Mike King offers a nuanced accounting of the cat-and-mouse game of social protest and social control. Grounded in the experience of Occupy Oakland, When Riot Cops Are Not Enough is immediately relevant to the upcoming generation of militant activists, engaged scholars and community police.”
—Michael White, author of The End of Protest

TRAPPED IN A VICE
The Consequences of Confinement for Young People
Alexandra Cox
Trapped in a VICE explores the lives of the young people in the criminal justice system, revealing the ways that they struggle to manage the expectations of that system; these stories from the ground level of the justice system demonstrate the complex exchange of policy and practice.

SEX OFFENDERS, STIGMA, AND SOCIAL CONTROL
Diana Rickard
“Rickard’s work is an important one on a subject that has not adequately been studied, namely the status of sex offenders and the present ‘moral panic.’ Clear, organized, and well-researched, Sex Offenders, Stigma, and Social Control is both distinctive and brave.”
—Lynn Chancer, Hunter College

THE FORGOTTEN MEN
Serving a Life without Parole Sentence
Margaret E. Leigey
“The Forgotten Men is essential reading for anyone who wants to understand the human costs of mass incarceration in America. Helplessly and compassionately account of injustice, inhumane punishment and the resilience of the human spirit, the book bars the devastating consequences of unnecessarily extreme sentencing policies.”
—Jennifer Turner, author of A Living Death: Life without Parole for Nonviolent Offenses

GOING VIRAL
Zombies, Viruses, and the End of the World
Dahlia Schweitzer
From 28 Days Later to 24 to The Walking Dead, movies, TV shows, and books are filled with zombie viruses, bioengineered plagues, and disease-ravaged bands of survivors. Going Viral analyzes why outbreak narratives have infected our public discourse and how they have affected the way Americans view the world.

SHADES OF WHITE FLIGHT
Evangelical Congregations and Urban Departure
Mark T. Seifert
Revealing how a dominant form of evangelical church polity—congregationalism—functioned within the larger phenomenon of white flight, Shades of White Flight lends new insights into the role of religion and how it can affect social change, for the better.

25th Anniversary Edition
LOFT LIVING
Culture and Capital in Urban Change
Sharon Zukin
“Zukin entered the tangled world of zoning law, development politics, and real estate markets, analyzed documents and conducted interviews until she understood that world and was able to make us understand it, and emerged with a persuasive analysis of what may be the fundamental model for urban change.”
—American Journal of Sociology

IN LADY LIBERTY'S SHADOW
The Politics of Race and Immigration in New Jersey
Robyn Magalit Rodríguez
“Rightly marking 9/11 as a political launchpad for the latest era of xenophobia and racism, Rodríguez vividly brings together the too-often separate narratives of race and empire, of Trayvon Martin and San Bernadino. This is a deeply personal, refreshingly vulnerable, and urgent piece of scholarship.”—Soya Jung, senior partner, ChangeLab

CRITICAL ISSUES IN HEALTH & MEDICINE

LADY LUSHES
Gender, Alcoholism, and Medicine in Modern America
Michelle L. McClellan
In Lady Lushes, medical historian Michelle L. McClellan traces the story of a female alcoholic from the late-nineteenth through the twentieth century. She draws on a range of sources—including medical literature, archival materials, popular media, and autobiographical writings of alcoholic women—to demonstrate the persistence of the belief that alcoholism is antithetical to an idealized feminine role.

KILLING POETRY
Blackness and the Making of Slam and Spoken Word Communities
Jayda Rodriguez
"Johnson’s Killing Poetry provides a rich opportunity for us to explore a world of competitive art-making hidden to most. Killing Poetry’s dynamic attention to the specific racial, gendered, sexual, and geographical valences in the spoken word community means that it is essential in its practice of ‘deep listening’ and complex thinking. Javon Johnson transfers his truly gifted eye as a spoken word and creative artist, to the critical work of studying performance and its other attendants.”
