REBELS & RIVAL FAMILIES
Women, Race, and the Making of American Kinship
Perri Klass
"This book addresses a void in the literature on the history of kinship in the U.S. and builds on contemporary kinship studies. A valuable contribution to the current scholarship on the role of race and gender in constructing family relationships and social identities."—Elisabeth Schieve, New York University

TROUBLE IN THE URBAN VILLAGE
The Politics of Inclusion in the Post-Massacre Mexico City
Carina Canales
"Brings together personal stories with political analysis to uncover the social, cultural, and economic structures that shape the lives of urban villagers. Canales provides a compelling narrative of the events surrounding the 2006 clashes in the Mexico City neighborhood of San Telmo and shows how the heartbreak and trauma experienced by individuals are also forms of political demonstration and resistance."—Carlos M. Salazar, University of California, Santa Barbara

HEIRLESS LAIR
Protecting Gardens in Washington, DC
Rhiannon May
"A detailed narrative of the history of the Kenilworth Union Church Cemetery, one of Washington, DC's oldest and most significant urban cemeteries. May's work is a call for action to protect Washington's gardens and cemeteries from development and urban blight."—Peter T. Braun, author of The Secret City

ALL TOGETHER NOW
American Holiday Symbolism
Among Children and Adults
Cindy Dell Clark
“Cindy Dell Clark builds on and expands her earlier work on holidays from an interdisciplinary and intergenerational perspective ... capturing the production of celebratory communal events at the individual, family, community and cultural level.”
—William A. Corsaro, author of The Sociology of Childhood 5th edition

LIFE AFTER GUNS
Reciprocity and Respect among Young Men in Liberia
Abby Hardgrove
“Life after Guns is a much needed study about excombatant and other youth in the Liberian post-war reality. Hardgrove takes us beyond previous studies of excombatant youth only, showing the importance of a broader generational and relational perspective on both conflict and post-conflicts.”
—Mats Utas, editor of African Conflicts and Informal Power: Big Men and Networks

YOUTH IN POSTWAR GUATEMALA
Education and Civic Identity in Transition
Michelle J. Bellino
Through rich ethnographic accounts, Youth in Postwar Guatemala traces youth experiences in schools, homes, and communities, examining how knowledge and attitudes toward historical injustice develop through formal and informal educational interactions. Michelle J. Bellino shows how a new generation struggles to unlearn authoritarianism and develop new democratic civic identities.

IMPLEMENTING INEQUALITY
The Invisible Labor of International Development
Rebecca Warne Peters
“Peters’ rich account humanizes people in the ‘implementariat’ and their daily challenges, struggles, and decisions. Ultimately hopeful, Implementing Inequality reminds us that frontline workers are already policymakers whose experience can guide a still-possible transformative development.”
—Mark Schuller, author of Humanitarian Aftershocks in Haiti

CHILDREN AS CAREGIVERS
The Global Fight against Tuberculosis and HIV in Zambia
Jean Hunleth
Hunleth chronicles the experiences of children living with parents and guardians who are suffering from these infectious diseases and shows how their perspectives matter in the global debates about health care. Children as Caregivers examines how well intentioned practitioners fail to realize how children take on active caregiving roles when their guardians become seriously ill.

TRAFFICKED CHILDREN AND YOUTH IN THE UNITED STATES
Reimagining Survivors
Elzbieta Gozdziak
“This is a thoughtful and important book about victims of child trafficking. Its strength lies in the juxtaposition of programmatic responses to trafficking with child survivors’ own perceptions of their experiences and needs.”
—Alicia Peters, University of New England
194 pp 3 tables 978-0-8135-6969-7 paper • $30.95 $21.67

CITY KIDS
Transforming Racial Baggage
Maria Kromidas
“I highly recommend this unique interdisciplinary work, which contributes to childhood studies and race studies with vivid ethnography.”

FAMILIES IN FOCUS

THE END OF INTERNATIONAL ADOPTION? An Unraveling Reproductive Market and the Politics of Healthy Babies
Esty Fenton

"This cohort of adoptive parents entered adoption during a time of both dramatically declining numbers of international placements and increasing public critique of this route to family formation...a welcome addition to the scholarship on international adoption and contemporary families."

—Heather Jacobson, author of Labor of Love: Gestational Surrogacy and the Work of Making Babies

QUEER KINSHIP AND FAMILY CHANGE IN TAIWAN
Amy Brainer

"Brainer adds new insights about the ways that queer Asians, specifically Taiwanese, negotiate alternative sexualities and genders within a family context and how members of their families help in this negotiation."

—Chong-suk Han, Middlebury College

RAISING THE RACE
Black Career Women Redefine Marriage, Motherhood, and Community
Riché J. Daniel Barnes

"Raising the Race is the first study to examine how black, married career women juggle their relationships with their extended and nuclear families, the expectations of the black community, and their desires to raise healthy, independent children. Barnes draws upon their diverse perspectives to propose policy initiatives that would improve the work and family lives of all Americans."

—Chong-suk Han, Middlebury College

VISUAL ENCOUNTERS IN THE STUDY OF RURAL CHILDHOODS
Edited by April Mandrona and Claudia Mitchell

"This is a book of intersections that takes the seemingly temporal idea of childhood and connects it to the apparently spatial idea of rurality. This is very stimulating reading that would improve the work and family lives of all Americans."

—Chong-suk Han, Middlebury College

PARCELS
Memories of Salvadoran Migration
Mike Anastario

"Anastario’s sharp focus on the ubiquitous and intimate movement of objects, from money, to food, to photographs, brilliantly opens up new and exciting areas of inquiry around memory studies, postwar, state violence, and the queering of the rural diaspora."

—Irina Carlota Silber, author of Everyday Revolutionary: Gender, Violence, and Disillusionment in Postwar El Salvador

BECOMING CREOLE
Nature and Race in Belize
Melissa A. Johnson

"Timely and timeless, Johnson’s elegant writing carries us into the Belizean forest, literally and metaphorically. Showing how culture and nature are mutually constitutive, this intimate work is by far the best portrayal of the complexities of race in Belize, and sheds new light on the entire Atlantic world."

—Richard Wilk, distinguished professor emeritus, Indiana University

DISENCHANTED LIVES
Apostasy and Ex-Mormonism among the Latter-day Saints
E. Marshall Brooks

"An extremely frank, thoughtful, compelling, and analytically rich exploration of contemporary apostasy and religious defection within a Mormon context. Brooks’s Disenchanted Lives is excellent. Highly recommended."

—Phil Zuckerman, author of Living the Secular Life

THE INSECURE CITY
Space, Power, and Mobility in Beirut
Kristin V. Monroe

"Kristin Monroe has written a remarkable book about the violence of everyday life in Beirut and has developed a fresh approach to understanding the difficulties of living in this ‘wounded’ city."

—Setha Low, Graduate Center of the City University of New York

ISTANBUL
Living with Difference in a Global City
Edited by Nora Fisher-Onar, Susan C. Pearl, and E. Fuat Keyman

"The contributors to Istanbul focus on the city’s connection to massive migration and globalization over the last two centuries, exploring the rise, collapse, and rebirth of cosmopolitan thinking and behaviors, and trying to sort out what functions as cosmopolitanism and what fails to live up to that term."

—Michael Corbett, coauthor of Rural Literacies: Transnational Perspectives

CATCHING A CASE
Inequality and Fear in New York City’s Child Welfare System
Tina Lee

"Lee’s important contribution reveals embedded racism and classism within the child welfare system."

—Aimee Cox, Fordham University
